22/09/2012	ORDER The instant appeal challenges the impugned order passed by the learned SDO, Marhaura on 08.01.2011 The case, in brief is that shop of the Appellant was inspected on 08.12.2010. The same was found closed, and, therefore, the records of the shop could not be examined during the inspection. Later, a show-cause notice was served on the Appellant, and she admitted that the shop was closed on account of her emergent visit to a doctor. Later, after a thorough examination of records, the SDO found a number of irregularities, and, hence the cancellation order. Heard the Appellant and the Respondent State. Also perused the record of the case. A glance at the impugned order makes it very clear that the impugned order follows a set of allegations different from those mentioned in the show-cause notice. In other words,

the impugned order speaks about several alleged irregularities which are alien to the original show-cause notice. The Appellant has right to defend herself on these additional allegations as well. But she was denied the opportunity of confronting these additional allegations, such as those pertaining to forged distribution register, apparent contradiction in the coupon numbers of several consumers, etc. Moreover, the impugned order cites many statements which are at best presumptions and impressions and not the legally proved facts.

Accordingly, I do not find the impugned order to be legally tenable, and the same is quashed. The license is also ordered to be restored.
